

EXHIBIT D

FEATURED DOMAINS

Top Stories

01. Enom says bug took down 350,000 domains
POSTED UNDER Domain Registrars

02. Judge reiterates demand that Canvas.com stop using its domain...tomorrow!
POSTED UNDER Policy & Law

03. Fractionalized domain name ownership comes to Rally
POSTED UNDER Domain Sales

Canvas is still using Canvas.com after court deadline passes

BY ANDREW ALLEMANN — JANUARY 24, 2022 POLICY & LAW 1 COMMENT

Company is hoping an appeals court will grant a stay.

Canvas is still using Canvas.com, even though a court-ordered deadline to rebrand has passed.

Diversity recruiting platform Canvas is still using the Canvas brand and Canvas.com domain name after a court deadline forcing a change passed.

U.S. District Judge Dale A. Kimball granted a preliminary injunction on January 5 in favor of Instructure (NYSE: INST), a company that says Canvas is infringing its trademark for Canvas. He gave Canvas 15 days to cease using the brand, delete all online posts using the Canvas brand, and stop using the canvas.com domain name.

Get the DNW Newsletter – sign up here.

Archives

Select Month v

On January 19, he denied Canvas' request for a stay and reiterated his January 20 deadline.

It's now January 24, and Canvas hasn't changed its brand.

It appears that Canvas is waiting for the 10th Circuit Court of Appeals to grant it a reprieve. On January 20, the company filed an Emergency Motion to Stay Entry of Preliminary Injunction Pending Appeal with the appeals court. The company reiterated its plea that changing its brand and domain name would devastate the business, making any future decisions in its favor moot.

The appeals court is asking Instructure to respond by January 26.

It makes sense that Canvas would wait for the appeals court to rule, given the short timeframe and the repercussions of changing its domain name and brand.

Learn More...

1. Wow: judge orders Canvas.com to stop using its domain name
2. Judge reiterates demand that Canvas.com stop using its domain... tomorrow!
3. After rebranding with Canvas.com, recruiting site faces trademark infringement claims

1 Comment

Tags: Canvas.com, Instructure

DomainAgents

What should you sell your domains for?

Read our Domain Market Report Now

Sponsored

Comments

Partners & Sponsors

Mike says

January 24, 2022 at 12:10 pm

Is that not contempt of court ,not complying with a Court Order ?. An appeal doesn't usually stop the Order having to be obeyed . Just asking not inferring anything just interested to know in US.

Reply

Leave a Comment

This site uses Akismet to reduce spam. Learn how your comment data is processed.

Privacy Policy & Terms of Service Disclosures Advertising

© 2005–2022 Domain Name Wire • DNW and Domain Name Wire are trademarks of Brainstorm Labs, LLC

